ELF HOUSE

On the Nature of Elves

There are many kinds of elves.

There are hill elves and valley elves, rainbow elves and field elves. There are elves who live underwater with the dolphins and octopuses and elves who live on the moon with the slugs and moon cows. There are early morning elves and late night elves, drunken elves and high elves.

There are elves who are barely there, the subtle elves who speak in whispers and walk through walls. Most elves are invisible, made of stuff we cannot see. Some elves might appear only as a shimmer or a sparkle or a glow or a stray shadow.

Life itself comes from the songs of elves. It is DNA and it is gravity.
Their songs keep the birds aloft in the sky, make the clouds dance in their formations.

Did you know that clouds are elf songs? That grass grows because the elves sing to the dirt?

Every tree is an elf singing.
